2. Reasons for Differences

Differences between the full-year consolidated earnings forecast and actual results were primarily attributable to the successful acquisition of GPU infrastructure services projects driven by the strengthening of our sales organization, as well as additional orders secured by group companies. In addition, we focused on carefully controlling and optimizing certain expenses. As a result, net sales exceeded the full-year forecast by ¥101 million, operating profit by ¥96 million, ordinary profit by ¥95 million, and profit attributable to owners of parent by ¥86 million.
